What advice would you give to other churches who may be considering a similar mission project?

1. Assist the local churches and pastors in their efforts to connect with the men in their community. When the men are reached with the gospel the women and children will soon be reached.
2. My advice is to prayerfully connect and commit to having an ongoing relationship with a single community and church. We've been able to see the fruit of this ongoing commitment. All of resources, energy, and prayers are committed to this one people and place thus we've now started to see some lasting fruit of salvation and lasting changes. It's a great joy to lead someone to Christ and then return to see them still in the faith and connected to the local church.
